THE FISHERY LAW.

An amendment to the fishery law of Nevada is needed, and we hope it will be made during the present session of the Legislature. The close season now commences April 1, just when the fish are most abundant in the river, and running up to their spawning beds. The fishing season closes here just when it opens in California. The operation of our law is peculiar, as far as concerns the fish in the Truckee river. Just when the fishing is at its best in the river, the close season comes, but across the State line above Verdi the Californians, or those fishing in California, can catch all the fish they want for their own use or for market. Fish which cannot legally be caught this side of the State line are captured on the other side of it, and sent here for sale. The effect of our law is to protect the fish in the Truckee river for the benefit of California. So far as the preservation of the fish is concerned, we think the law all wrong. All the fish that can be fairly caught with hook and line in the river will never exhaust the supply. The season during which the fish in the river will take the hook is brief; at other times they will not bite. The season of good fishing is just the season in which fishing is prohibited by the law. Moreover, it is probable that but few fish spawn in the river. Most of those which ascend from Pyramid lake probably go up into Lake Tahoe to spawn. Fishermen say that many never leave Pyramid lake, spawning there year after year. Certain it is that there are always vast numbers of mature fish in the lake; the fishing there being usually good the year round, and even when trout are running freely up the river.

Gov. Kinkead's suggestion to have our close season made to correspond with the close season in California, is good. We hope to see it carried out.

A CONTEMPLATED CRIME.

Lander County's action in attempting to repudiate its bonds of $200,000 to the Nevada Central, will bring great discredit upon the State of Nevada as well as upon that county. The appropriation was made on a vote of the tax-payers, and the road was built in good faith. The offer was held open and freely advertised for four years, and every pledge was made that the bonds would be paid. Lander County would find it far cheaper in the end to pay the original agreement than to blow about it. That course would save her credit, and prevent disaster to the State. The first scene in the great panic of 1873, which it has taken the country seven years to get over, was the repudiation by the State of Minnesota of her railroad subsidy bonds, and the consequent failure of Jay Cooke. It may be foolish or even wicked to give subsidies to railroads, but when they are once given let us not repudiate them, or squeal. Even gamblers are too honorable for that.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Titus Coan, a well known actuary, in a leading American magazine says that in the United States there are 2,705 million dollars insured on 1,100,000 lives, and that 105 million dollars are annually paid in premiums. Of 36 companies started in 1861 only 4 remain. Mr. Coan declares that the present system of life insurance is a fraud on the policy holders, and that the premiums are extortionate. One President admitted that he had received $325,905.25 from the funds of his company during eighteen years, in "salaries and extra expenses." Mr. Coan advocates the formal attachment of a fair surrender value in cash to every policy issued in future, and general taking out of endowment policies for a stated term of years, instead of whole-life policies.

A Chicago Times Mentor special reporter a prominent member of Congress as saying: "Conkling will come out of the Sprague trial blacker than the devil. His conduct in the Sprague family is a national disgrace, and a disgrace to the Republican party. He will be ruined. He ought to be damned forever. He cannot be countenanced by such men as Garfield or Blaine after the exposure which is certain to be made if Sprague's suit goes on. Grant has taken to drink again and made an unfortunate exhibition of himself several times lately."

Delaware Bay is the haunt of a certain ancient wild goose, known as "Tecumseh," of which strange tough yards are told. "Tecumseh" is described as four feet high, with an estimated weight of twenty five pounds, and as solitary in his habits. Hundreds of pounds of shot, we are asked to believe, have been fired at him in vain. The bird bears a charmed life or a shot-proof hide, and is the despair of gunners.

The Chicago Field of Jany. 1 is a superlative number, the finest copy of a sporting paper we have ever seen. To any person interested in natural history and field sports the Field will be found a most valuable paper. It will be supplied, together with the Weekly GAZETTE, for $4 a year. The subscription to the Field alone is $4.

The wife of Baron Rothschild of Paris is a beauty, fond of the chase and the theatre. While associating with the most elegant ladies of the French capital, she never imitates their lavish toilets. Her dresses are said to be always simple, and she wears few jewels.

The New York Truth, which published the forged Morey letter to the world, charges Stanley Huntley, of the Brooklyn Eagle, with being the author of the forgery. The charge has not been proven.

Senator Johnson has introduced a bill in the California Legislature fixing the rate for ten-word telegrams between any two points in the State at 25 cents, and five cents for each additional ten words.

A writer in the Railroad Gazette says the link motion was invented by an apprentice, Daniel Williams, in Robert Stephenson's shop. It was perfected by William Howe, a workman in the same shop, in 1842.

UNIVERSALISM AND ORTHODOXY.

JOTTINGS.

RENO, Jan. 7, 1881.
Editor Gazette—In your yesterday's issue you quote the New York Sun as saying that because orthodox ministers attend the funeral of a Universalist clergyman, they must henceforth be ranked with him in belief. Also "they have given up hell, as it was formerly preached, and their churches are filled with Universalists." According to the strict laws of logic and of common sense both of these statements are non-sequitur. Dr. Chapin was a very fine Christian man, despite his error on the point of Universalism; and while a man may have some weakness of apprehension and understanding, on some one or more points of God's law, if he observes the cardinal points thereof and lives a Christian life, he will be honored and admired by all true members of whatever denomination of Christ's church.

It is not true, in theory nor fact, that the Christian church is any less in perfect accord with God's word, than the Bible, than in the past centuries of the Christian era; and as the eternal condemnation of the finally impenitent is clearly taught in this sacred volume, the great body of the church so believe to-day. The Bible is of Oriental origin and therefore uses a high style of imagery, in order to reach the minds of those addressed; and its style has been adapted for the great mass of humanity of all ages, climes and orders of intelligence. The great mass of mankind cannot become philosophers and spend their lives in speculation; their happiness in this life and the next lies in grasping principles of action which will cause them to live here as men and women who must account to the great Creator for all their opportunities and privileges. The Savior taught that the obedient should go away into life eternal and the disobedient into death eternal.

As "one swallow does not make a summer," so does not one Brooklyn (so-called) orthodox clergyman determine the doctrinal standing of the Protestant church outside of Universalism. The man I speak of as orthodox, the pastor of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, has always been known as the most erratic of erratics, and has a reputation for theological unsoundness and crudity of which any ordinarily well-read theological undergraduate would be ashamed.

About four years ago a Mr. Merriam was refused ordination and installation into the office of pastor of a Congregational church in Massachusetts. This caused a cry from the secular papers of "persecution for conscience sake." The fact is, if Mr. M. was a Universalist, he had no moral right to seek admission to a pulpit where the opposite standards prevailed. He was refused by the council of ministers called to examine him in theology.

It has been a hard job for the Abrahams Bros. to get that big stock of goods from the Virginia establishment stowed away in the White House, but it is done. The White House is now the most complete clothing establishment in the State.

A Projected Railroad From Truckee to Quincy.

A meeting was held at Sierraville last Saturday evening to consider the project of a narrow gauge railroad from Truckee, via Sierra and Mohawk valleys, to Quincy, Plumas county. Resolutions were unanimously passed, favoring the construction of the road. Among those taking part in the proceedings were T. S. Batelle, A. S. Nichols, H. Morthey, J. Hodges, J. Campbell, Louis Dolly, S. F. Barton, Thomas Lebode, Hon. H. K. Turner and F. W. Rowland. Another meeting with the same object was held on Monday evening last. A committee was appointed to secure the cooperation of the people of Truckee. The Republican says: "A preliminary organization of a company has already been formed, and as soon as stock of the required amount has been subscribed for, and the necessary per cent thereof paid, the prosecution of the work will be commenced."

Eating Each Others Manes and Tails From Hunger.

Four horses were recently found snow-bound near Graniteville, Nevada county, Cal. They were caught out in a storm, and the snow fell to a depth of seven feet. They had eaten the hair of each other's manes and tails completely off, in the attempt to satisfy their hunger, and were reduced to mere skeletons. When rescued they showed extravagant delight.

Big Trout.

A trout weighing 24 1/2 pounds was caught in Lake Tahoe last Tuesday, and is on exhibition in a Carson restaurant. This comes next to the 26 pounder from the same waters, that was sent to President Grant. The Carson Times says that trout weighing 30, 40 and even 60 pounds each, have been taken from Walker Lake.
